General Information about CSP/TSC Exam and Preparation to Use in Your Marketing:

Obtaining the CSP® or TSCSM designation from the American Staffing Association can help enhance your career, stand out from the competition, minimize legal risks, and protect employee rights.

The CSP and TSC programs are the only staffing certification programs that include employment and labor law requirements for the state or states in which you do business. And anyone who earns the TSC designation will automatically earn the CSP designation as well.

Complement your individual study for the CSP or TSC exams by joining others from your area who are also preparing to earn an ASA designation. The Mid-Atlantic Staffing Association is proud to partner with ASA to offer this group study session that includes topics such as co-employment; pre-employment; wages, workplace safety, and termination; and legal issues unique to technical, IT, and scientific staffing firms (for TSC only).

Members of the study group will take part in discussions and exercises pertaining to the federal portions necessary for the exams. Unique learning activities have been designed to increase understanding and retention, such as quizzes, games, case studies, and discussion questions.
